Vessel to Test Egypt's Blockade Of Suez Canal

Danish Ship Under Charter to Israel at Entrance to Canal

CAIRO, Egypt (UP) — A Danish vessel under charter to Israel arrived at the southern entrance of the Suez Canal today to test Egypt's blockade of the waterway.

The ship, the 355-ton Brigitte Toft, docked at Suez and was boarded immediately by Egyptian customs officials for an inspection of its papers and cargo.

There was no immediate word on whether they would allow the vessel to go through.

The vessel, carrying a cargo of rice and copra from Burma to Haifa, is known to be on Egypt's blacklist for ships under charter to Israel.

When the ship docked, flying a Danish flag, a launch carrying armed sailors and members of the War Efforts Committee of the Egyptian Customs Administration pulled alongside.

Committee members boarded the ship and stayed for several hours.

The vessel was the first major ship to use the Gulf of Aqaba and Israel's newly-developed Port of Eilat.

Hull, Blyth, agents for the ship, said it was 14 hours overdue.

They said the Brigitte Toft reported engine room fires twice during the journey from Rangoon but that there was no serious damage or casualties.

Leased Two Islands

The Aqaba sea route was opened when Israel cleared the Sinai Peninsula and Tiran and Sanafir Islands at the mouth of the gulf last fall. Egypt had leased the two islands controlling the Strait of Tiran from Saudi Arabia.

Israeli sources said the two islands were still unoccupied although there have been reports Saudi Arabia was placing guns there to renew the blockade. The Sinai shore opposite the islands is held now by troops of the U.N. emergency force.

The Brigitte Toft, under charter to the Shoham Israeli National Shipping Co., left Eilat in April with cement for Burma.

Rumors Of Sabotage

Fire broke out aboard the ship while it was docked in Rangoon in May and there were rumors of sabotage at the time. Officials denied the reports.

Israeli officials said they were planning counter action should Egypt hold up or confiscate the cargo or prevent Suez Canal passage. But they said action would be limited to political moves, probably in the Security Council.

However officials said any hostile Egyptian action against the ship was likely to bring Egyptian-Israeli relations to a renewed crisis and disrupt the comparative quiet which has reigned for several weeks.

State to End Its Side of Pinball Case

The state is expected to conclude its side of the pinball case in Fayette County Court in Uniontown today.

Judge Eustace H. Bane is hearing testimony in the case which will be decided later by the court sitting en banc.

The state is trying to prove that 41 pinball machines seized in raids on June 20 in Brownsvile, Connellsville and Uniontown are gambling devices.

If the court so rules, the state is expected to wage an all-out campaign against such multiple-coin machines.

In testimony last week, a research associate from Penn State University, Harold J. Ergott Jr., told the court that "skill does not enter into it (the playing of pinball machines) as far as the electrical arrangements and odds of the machine are concerned."

Another state witness, Arthur Beradi, a state trooper, reported on his findings after playing 90 consecutive games. Under cross-examination, Beradi conceded that it was possible to control the pinballs to a certain extent.

Beradi also agreed with defense counsel that the machines carried the inscription "For Amusement Only" and "No Gambling."

One additional witness for the state is expected today.

Attorney William E. Duffield, co-counsel for the defense, said the defense case will "take about one day." An expert on pinball machine construction and operation is expected to be heard first.

Rockwell Firm Earnings Up

PITTSBURGH (UP)—First half earnings of Rockwell Manufacturing Co. rose to $4,743,000, or $2.15 a share from $4,332,000, or $2.02 a share in the corresponding period a year earlier, the company announced today.

Willard F. Rockwell Jr., president, said sales climbed 14 per cent to $61 129,000 from $53,656,000 last year, while new orders amounted to $62,617,000 or 11 per cent ahead of last year's total of $56,383,000.

"Since our second half is normally stronger than our first and orders are continuing strong, we are tentatively expecting total sales of about $130 million for the year," he said.

CLOSED STORE IS OPENED — A closed store located at the Donora end of the Donora bridge was inadvertently opened about four hours before time this morning at 3:45, when a car slammed through its front, smashing plate glass windows, display racks and merchandise. Angelo Alanzo, owner, directed cleanup crews. The driver and two companions were uninjured.

Store Damaged By Auto Near Donora Bridge

A two-car accident in Donora early this morning caused one of the cars to slam into and heavily damage a store located at the intersection of 10th St. and the Donora bridge.

According to Donora police, a car driven by Anthony Julian, 27, of R. D., Monongahela, struck a machine operated by Steve Dzuksky, 50, of 619 Second St., Donora, at the intersection.

The crash caused the Dzuksky machine to turn almost completely around, resulting in the driver losing control. The car went up over the curb, rammed through the front of the store and came to stop against a soft drink machine in the rear of the establishment.

Candy machines, display cases and bread racks were crushed under the wheels of the four-door sedan.

Dzuksky and two unidentified companions in his car escaped unhurt, police stated. Julian also escaped injury.

Angelo Alanzo, owner of the store, was unable to estimate the amount of damage this morning.

Senate Critics of Civil Rights Bill Claim Votes for Victory

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate critics of the administration civil rights bill claimed a minimum of 50 votes today —a clear majority — to kill its most controversial provision.

This forecast came on the heels of a renewed defense of the entire measure by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. He supported all its most contested features and said "public opinion is so aroused" behind the bill that the Senate will reject any attempt to compromise its main features.

With the Senate starting its third week of debate on the bill, a vote was expected today or Tuesday on the most fought-over section—Part III. It would permit the Justice Department to get injunctions against conspiracies to deprive persons of any and all civil rights.

No Intention

Brownell, now en route to Europe, said in a filmed TV interview Sunday night that the administration has no intention of using that proviso to try to enforce school integration in the South. Southern foes of the bill assert it could be used to do so.

Brownell said under the Supreme Court's 1954 school edict it is the responsibility of federal district courts to see that the desegregation order is carried out.

He also belittled fears of southerners that the bill would revive an old reconstruction era law authorizing the president to send troops into the South to enforce court decrees on civil rights. He said use of troops was "furthest from the President's thoughts" in working out the bill.

Brownell opposed efforts to write jury trial guarantees into the bill. He said they would run counter to this country's traditional judicial "experience" that "when a court orders a thing to be done, then the court should be able to enforce it."

Others Important

The attorney general also opposed limiting the measure to a right-to-vote bill, as the move to knock out Part III in effect would do. He said there are "other civil rights that are awfully important in this country" and "I don't think we should overlook" them.

Nevertheless prospects looked good for those seeking to kill Part III. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), co - sponsor with Sen. George D. Aiken (R - Vt.) of the amendment to remove the section, said he believes Senate sentiment "is strong enough to eliminate this objectionable material."

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the southern opposition to the bill, also predicted Part III will be thrown out. He added he would be "very much surprised" if a jury trial proviso is not put into the bill.

Chief Against 'Dingle-dangles'

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Paul E. Rouzer, police chief of Altoona, Pa., today urged amendment of the state's traffic laws to ban what he called "dingle-dangles"

Rouzer told the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association meeting here that a recent survey in his area revealed some auto accidents have been caused by dingle-dangles - baby shoes, garters, and other keepsakes hung from the rear view mirror.

Rouzer also took a crack at stuffed knickknacks placed on the rear window sills of autos.

"They started out being small objects such as cats or dogs," he said. "Now the animals are large enough to obscure proper sight. Some motorists have gone whatboard and have six or seven whatnots cluttring the rear window."

Man Arrested For Chasing 15-year-old Girl

John Edmonds, 68, of 1458 Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, who just last Wednesday was released from Allegheny County workhouse, was back behind bars again today. This time he is a guest at the Monessen police station.

Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka described Edmonds as an "old man with young ideas."

Edmonds is being held on a suspicious person charge following his chase of a 15-year-old girl on Sixth St. over the weekend.

He chased the girl through Sixth St. Park, down the park steps to Donner Ave. The girl's youth and agility proved too much for Edmonds at this point and he gave up.

The girl didn't, however.

She continued her sprint to the police station where, nearly out of breath she related the chase.

Police arrested Edmonds a few minutes later. He is scheduled for a hearing in police court this week.

Auto Injuries Fatal

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UP) — George Plappert, 67, West Mifflin, died Sunday in McKeesport Hospital of injuries received when he was struck July 15 by a motorcycle operated by Paul C. Ernst, of North Braddock.

Firemen from 19 Companies Help in Search

The body of 11-year-old Donald Bitonti was recovered from the Monongahela River at Belle Vernon yesterday morning after a two-day search in which nearly 500 firemen took part.

The youth, who couldn't swim, drowned in the river Friday afternoon when he slipped from an inner tube about 25 feet offshore behind the Lincoln Homes plant.

Firemen from 19 district companies participated in one of the biggest river searches ever staged in the district.

Ironically, the boy's body was found floating yesterday morning by a lone fireman, Bob Whitelaw, Jr., son of the North Belle Vernon chief.

Whitelaw had gone to the river at 7:30 a. m. to make preparations for the search which was to resume at 9 a. m. He spotted the body a few feet from shore and waded to retrieve it. Firemen said the victim was picked up at the riverbank by Edwin Melenyzer and removed to the Ferguson Funeral Home.

Spotted by Plane

Firemen had dragged the river until late Friday night, then again Saturday until midnight.

On Saturday afternoon, the boy's body was spotted by searchers Gordon Bethem and Sal Perry, who were cruising over the river in a plane.

They sighted the body about 50 yards from the spot where firemen were dragging. Before searchers could reach the exact point, a diesel boat went by, stirring enough mud to obscure operations.

However it was near this point that the boy's body was found the next morning.

The dragging operations were directed by Kenneth Beazell and Robert Whitelaw Sr., fire chiefs at Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon, respectively.

About 500 firemen from these companies took part at one time or another in the futile rescue attempts: North Belle Vernon, Belle Vernon, Washington Twp., Fayette City, Lock Four, Monessen Companies 1 and 2, West Elizabeth, Greensburg, South Connellsville, Luzerne Twp., Youngwood, Sutersville, Hopwood, South Brownsville, Farmington, Charleroi, Newell and West Newton.

13 Boats Used

Throughout the daylight hours, firemen kept 13 boats staffed in an attempt to locate the youth.

A walkie-talkie radio network was used to coordinate the dragging operations. Chief Beazell said many district fire companies picked up the broadcast and offered their help.

The rescue attmpt was complicated by two factors, firemen said. The Bitonti boy was unclad, making it difficult to locate him with grappling hooks. Then, too, the river bottom is extremely rough at the point of the drowning.

The victim was floating on an inner tube with his brother William, when he suddenly slipped into the water about 1:15 p. m. Friday.

William paddled to shore where

No-parking Ban Enforced; Cars Are Towed Away

A strict no-parking ban went into effect today on Railroad Alley between Fourth and Sixth streets in downtown Monessen.

And city police wasted no time in letting the public know they meant business. Cars owned by two violators were towed away this morning.

Police Chief Michael Kuvinka said the violators will have to pay a $1 fine, plus towing costs of about $4.

Under the new regulation, absolutely no parking is permitted along the Alley, except by trucks which are bing loaded or unloaded.

The parking ban is part of an overall plan to relieve traffic congestion in the downtown district.

As soon as street car rails have been removed from Donner Ave., no parking will be permitted on the north side from Fourth to Sixth streets. Workmen are expected to begin the rail-removal project tomorrow.

The Donner Ave. parking ban has been approved on a 90-day trial basis.

Heat Wave Hangs on District

A broiling heat wave kept district residents sweltering today.

At noon, the mercury had climbed to 90 degrees. It was expected to go much higher during the afternoon.

The hot humid weather is trapped over the state by a moisture laden mass of hot air to the south, according to the weather bureau.

No relief is in sight until tomorrow when a weak frontal system, presently located over the central Great Lakes, is expected to move eastward over Pennsylvania.

The sweltering weekend heat sent thousands of district residents to the mountains, baches and parks in an effort to find some cool breezes.

At City Park, one of the largest crowds in history turned out. Nearby beaches were packed and Route 51 leading to the mountains was exceptionally busy.

Farmers reported that the heat is beginning to take its toll on crops. Unless rain comes soon, there is danger of serious losses, they stated.

At U. S. Lock Four in Monessen, attendants reported that the Monongahela River has dropped to one of its lowest stages in history.

The reading at the lower guage is 10.4. Normally it takes 11 feet of water to lock through the coal-laden barges.

"That means the boats have to lighten their cargo to get through the locks," the attendant said.

Lock Four was the only site

WHO SAYS IT'S HOT? — Rather than complain about the heat, Joseph Smoke, of 1311 Athalia Ave., Monessen, decided to do something about it. He built this pool in his backyard, then invited the neighborhood youngsters to enjoy it. The boys and girls had a great time splashing over the weekend as an escape from the current heat wave. Mrs. Smoke cooled off, too, acting as the "life guard."

Ike Returns to Stifling Capital

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower flew back to stifling hot Washington today from a warm-weather week end at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Washington's temperature was expected to reach a high of near 100 today. It soared to 101 Sunday for the hottest day locally in three years.

'Long Haired' Airman Given Four Months

FUCHU, Japan (UP) — A court martial board found a young American airman guilty of disobeying an order in refusing to get a "white-sidewall" haircut and sentenced him to four months imprisonment at hard labor.

The board also reduced Airman 3C Donald Wheeler of Cortez, Colo., to the rank of Airman Basic (private) and fined him $50 monthly for four months.

"I do not think this is fair," Wheeler said as he choked back the tears after the sentencing.

The 20-year-old Wheeler balked at getting the haircut — one with shaved sides and a fringe on the top — while a member of the honor guard at the U.N.-Far East Command Headquarters at Pershing Heights in downtown Tokyo.

Three of the four officers on the board turned up at the final day of the court sporting new haircuts. They deliberated 43 minutes before returning a verdict.

On the board trying him were a lieutenant colonel, two majors and a captain. The colonel and the majors went through the first three sessions of the court martial with long hair that needed trimming.

Today they turned up with neat, fresh trims. Only the captain, who had started with a crewcut, showed no evidence of visiting a barber shop. He still needed a trim.

Wheeler had termed the white sidewall haircut "ridiculous" and said it made him look "idiotic" and like a "shaved jackass."

The prosecutor, 1st. Lt. William D. Pridgen of Kings Tree, S.C., said the haircut had nothing to do with it. He said the airman refused to obey an order and he took the court on a verbal tour of Valley Forge, Pearl Harbor and the fighting in Germany and France to show the seriousness of the offense.

"The men who fought for our country at Valley Forge, Pearl Harbor, France and Germany did not disobey orders," he said.

He said that if Wheeler had disobeyed an order in the Chinese Communist army "he would probably now be rotting in some ditch."

Leader's Desk Cleared of Bills

420 Bills Studied; On Vacation

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader's desk was cleared of 420 bills left him by the 1957 General Assembly in its adjournment rush last month.

The governor took action on the final remaining measures over the weekend and then went on vacation with his family.

The record showed the Legislature approved 665 measures during its 5½ month session, the shortest in eight years. Leader let reenactment of the sales tax signed 546 bills, vetoed 119 and at 3 per cent become law without his signature.

The last bill the governor acted upon Sunday was a measure against "conflict of interest" by consultants, officers and employes of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and state agencies.

Half a Loaf

The governor signed the bill into law on the premise that "half a loaf is better than no bread at all."

He pointed out the amended version that reached his desk did not cover legislators and charged the omission was "an outright evasion of the bill's intent."

Meanwhile, a House Republican leader rapped sharply the governor's recent veto of a bill for legislative control over public assistance grants.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (McKean) said in a weekend statement the legislation was designed to curtail the administration's plans to dole out aid funds for "ridiculous purposes."

Leader said in his veto message the proposal would have handicapped the activities of the department in meeting prevailing economic conditions.

on the Monongahela River to record an appreciable rainfall yesterday.

From 7:15 to 7:40 p. m., the Lock reported .23 inches of rain

That brief shower also hit Monessen and Belle Vernon. However it did little to lower temperatures.

Yesterday's high was 97 degrees at 1 p. m., according to the weather station at the Donora Zinc Works. On Saturday, the high was 96.

The overnight low was 72. A reading in the high 90's was predicted for this afternoon again.

The Weather Bureau in Pittsburgh also promised light and scattered thundershowers, but little relief from the heat until Tuesday.

Today's rain will not be nearly enough to give state farms a much-needed soaking, according to the Weather Bureau.

Across the nation, the present weather system took its toll. The midwest was hit by a series of severe storms.

Sheboygan, Wis., was hit by one of its most damaging storms in years Sunday and Enid, Okla., was swamped by a two-inch rainfall in a six-hour period Sunday night.

The storms marked the southern rim of a cool air front moving southward into the Great Lakes and Central Plains.

There was no relief in the East, however, where New Yorkers baked in the hottest weather Sunday in nearly two years. The mercury hit a top of 97 3 degrees, the highest reading since Aug. 2, 1955.

Nearly three million persons jammed New York beaches in an effort to escape the heat.

In nearby New Jersey, temperatures climbed to a record 99 and private lot operators at beaches enjoyed a bonanza, charging $3 a head to swimmers. At least five persons were killed in traffic wrecks on New Jersey's crowded highways.

Other high readings included 101 at Baltimore, and 100 at Wilmington, Del., and Gordonsville, Va.

The storm at Sheboygan disrupted power and uprooted trees in the Lake Michigan city. Lightning touched off three fires and property damage in the city was high.

SKELTONS MEET WITH POPE — Comedian Red Skelton and his wife, on a tour with their children, Valentina, 10, and Richard 9, victim of fatal leukemia, meet with His Holiness Pope Pius XII in a private audience at the Vatican. The meeting was the high point of the world tour Skelton is taking his son on in an attempt to show him the world as possible in the short time of life he has left. him less than a year to live. The Holy Father presented each member of the family with a pontifical medal bearing the papal shield and gave Richard a special blessing.

Girl Is Trapped in Plane for 37 Hours

ALLIANCE, Neb. (UP)—A Civil Air Patrol official today blamed a delay in reporting a missing aircraft for the ordeal of a 17-year-old girl trapped for 7 hours in the wreckage of plane with her dead parents and the pilot.

The girl, Judy Diehl, Cozad, Neb., was rescued Sunday and sped to a hospital here where physicians said she was in fair condition and in good spirits.

Miss Diehl suffered a fractured leg, shock, cuts and bruises when the light plane in which she, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Diel, and te pilot, Milo German, 55, also of Cozad, were riding nosed into the ground in barren sandhill country near here.

The Diehls and German, owner of a plastics firm, apparently were killed instantly. Judy was unable to move because of her injuries. She attracted the attention of rescue planes by waving a white scarf.

She said the plane left Alliance about 8:30 p.m. Friday en route to Cozad, but flew into a storm and attempted to return to Alliance.

"I remember the plane going down," she told rescuers. "The next thing I knew I woke up in the wreckage."

Her only food during the time she was trapped was one banana. She managed to catch some rainwater to drink.

At Omaha, Jim Grove, commander of the Nebraska wing of the CAP, criticized the search and rescue operation. He said he was not notified that the plane was missing until about noon Sunday, although it crashed Friday night.

Warren Mentioned as Democratic Candidate

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep Frank Thompson (D-N.J.) has urged his fellow Democrats to consider nominating Chief Justice Earl Warren — a Republican—for president in 1960.

Warren is "as much a Democrat as he is a Republican", Thompson said, adding he would be "unbeatable" heading the Democratic ticket.

As possible vice presidential candidates he suggested Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) or New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Thompson issued a formal statement Sunday night praising the Chief Justice for his role in the Supreme Court's public school desegregation ruling and other recent controversial civil rights decisions.

Defending Warren against attacks by Southern Democrats and others, Thompson said that "to those who would deny American citizens their civil liberties and civil rights, Warren has become an anathema."

He said Warren "has led the court back to a road of constitutional liberalism reminiscent" of the days of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At Newark, N.J., Gov. Meyner said Sunday night he was uninterested now in the proposal.

"My concern right now is to be reelected governor of New Jersey," the Democratic governor said.

Meyner made his statement on his weekly radio - television program. Also present was State Sen. Joseph W. Cowgill (D-Camden), who said he thought it was improper that the name of the Chief Justice should be "bruited about" as a political candidate.

Cowgill, Senate minority leader, noted, however, that Warren "was elected governor of California with support of both parties."

Nuclear Expert Says Soviet Has Reduced Plans

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—An American atomic expert said today the Russians have been forced to make 'drastic reductions" in their "grandiose plans" for nuclear power.

This country "would be silly indeed," he said, "to let unsupported and irrational claims as to (Soviet) capabilities distort and warp sound U.S. policies and programs."

These remarks were made by W. Kenneth Davis, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Reactor Development Division, at the Midwest regional conference of the Council of State Governments.

Davis strongly defended the AEC's program for development of many technical approaches to atomic power against congressional criticism that the United States is losing "in some kind of hypothetical 'nuclear kilowatt race.'"

He conceded that the British who started operating the world's first large scale nuclear power plant last fall, "have done a very excellent job." But what is good for the British, where conventional fuel is "two to three times as expensive as in the United States," is not good for this country, he said.

The kind of nuclear power plant the British have their chips on couldn't become competitive with coal plants here before 1990, Davis said.

Jealous Hubby Shoots Wife; Kills Man, Self

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (UP)— A jealous husband shot and wounded his estranged wife and killed her escort from ambush Sunday and then took his own life with the same weapon.

Police said Guy Cary Mumau, 28, a bricklayer, lay in wait in the early morning near the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs James Dickey, on Route 219 at Bell's Landing. As his wife, Jeannette, 23, and her escort, Marvin Price, 31, a well-to-do trucking operator, drove up to the home in an automobile, Mumau jerked open one of the doors.

He fired a .22 caliber pistol, shooting Mrs. Mumau in the jaw and Price in the head. Price was killed instantly.

Mumau then ran into a nearby service station operated by his wife's father. He was found dead there later with a bullet wound in his head.

Mrs. Mumau was listed in satisfactory condition today in Clearfield Hospital.

Clearfield County Coroner Robert R. Heath listed the deaths as a murder and suicide.

State police said Price was married and the father of two children. They said he met Mrs Mumau about a year ago in a lunchroom operated by her father about 16 miles west of here.

Mrs. Mumau filed for a divorce last Monday the trooper said.

Mother, Who Killed Three, Is Released

ALDERSON, W. Va. (UP)—Mrs. Eunice M. Brillhart, 30, sentenced to life imprisonment by a U. S. Army courtmartial in 1954, for killing three of her four children, was released today from the Federal Reformatory for Women here.

She was met at the prison gates by her husband, Army Sgt. Robert W. Brillhart, who told newsmen he was "still much in love" with her.

The Army originally ordered Mrs Brillhart deported to her native England, but her husband succeeded in having her paroled in his custody.

He said he planned to take her to his family's home in Columbus, Ohio, for a reunion with their surviving child, five-year-old Diane, and from there to Sandia Base, NM, where he is stationed, to start a "new life."

Mrs. Brillhart served 2½ years of the life imprisonment sentence imposed July 23, 1954. She was convicted by a court martial in Asmara, Eritrea, Africa of killing her three daughters, all under 19 months in age, in 1952 and 1953 by dropping them on their heads. The children were Sharon, killed Nov. 18, 1952; Kathryn, killed Nov. 22, 1953, and Patricia, killed Dec. 7, 1953.

The Army announced earlier this month that Mrs. Brillhart's sentence was being remitted "after consideration of all matters in extenuation and mitigation."

The Army gave no specific reason for her release. But a recent Supreme Court decision in the case of another Army wife tried by a court martial held that the Army had no right to try civilians even though they be dependents of Army personnel.

Mrs Brillhart told newsmen it was "very wonderful" to be free again. She said she would like to return to England "to see my people, but not to live there permanently."

Her husband said that "if it could be worked out" he would like to have her become an American citizen, but she declined to discuss naturalization.

"We'll just have to wait and see what the authorities will let me do," she said.

She said one of the first things she wanted to do was visit "all the stores and see what I have missed in recent years."

Before entering the prison gates, Brillhart consented to answer questions by newsmen. But then he balked and returned to his car where he sat alone after a London newsman queried him about his feelings toward his wife as a result of the deaths of their children.

Brillhart and his wife appeared very nervous as they came out of the prison gates and entered his automobile.

Warehousemen at Furniture Stores Return to Work

PITTSBURGH (UP)—About 250 warehousemen, who walked off the job at four Pittsburgh district furniture stores two weeks ago, returned to work today with a new three-year contract.

The warehousemen, members of Local 636, General Warehousemen, voted overwhelmingly at a meeting Sunday to accept management's offer of a 9 cents an hour pay hike, plus an insurance program estimated to cost 2 to 6 cents an hour. Samuel Spurrier, business representative of the local, said.

The strike against Spear & Co. and May-Stern and Co., both of Pittsburgh, Ohringer Home Furniture, Braddock and McKeesport, and Ruben Furniture Co., Homestead and McKeesport, began after the warehousemen rejected a company offer of a 7 cents an hour wage increase.

Deliveries were suspended during the strike because other unions honored the Local 636 picket lines, but the stores' remained open.

The new contract is retroactive to March 15, when the old contract expired, and runs to May, 1960, with wage reopeners set for March 15, next year and in 1959.

Begin Gigantic Task of Hauling Tons of Rock

LITTLE VALLEY, Utah (UP)—Power shovels and trucks today began the months-long job of dumping into Great Salt Lake the three million tons of rock cracked from a cliff here by the nation's largest non-atomic explosion.

The rock will become the facing of a 13-mile earth fill structure being constructed across the north west arm of the lake by Southern Pacific Railway to replace an obsolete wooden trestle.

When the 49-million dollar job is completed in about four years, transcontinental trains can cross the lake faster and safer.

The blast Sunday utilized 1,790,000 pounds of explosives packed into tunnels at the base of the 300 foot quartzite-rock cliff. Previous non - atomic record holder for blasts was 1,362,000 pounds used on a Tennessee TVA dam in 1949.

Eight Youths Killed as Car Is Hit by Train

SOMERSET, Ky. (UP) — Eight teen-agers out for a Sunday afternoon joyride were killed near here Sunday when a slow-moving freight train rammed their old model car at a railroad crossing.

Pulaski County Coroner Kenneth Gibbs said crewmen on the Southern Railway freight said the car, traveling at about 35 to 45 miles per hour," didn't seem to hesitate when it mounted the tracks."

Authorities said the car apparently stalled momentarily on the tracks at the crossing before the southbound train struck it. The train, traveling at about 50 miles per hour, came to a stop about a half a mile from the crash scene.

The victims were identified as Charles Simmons, 16, the driver of the car; Ronald Davis, 17; James Richards, 16; Betty Bray, 15; James Calhoun, 12; and Charles Allen, 13, and his sisters, Frances, 14, and Josephine, 15. All were Somerset residents.

Three of the victims were thrown clear when the train struck the 1941 model sedan. The other five were trapped in the jalopy which burst into flames.

Sheppard Lie Detector Test On Wednesday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill today called off a scheduled lie-detector test for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard until the "truthfulness" of a Florida convict's confession that he killed Mrs. Sheppard can be checked.

O'Niell cancelled the test for the convicted wife slayer after receiving a telegram from the Court of Last Resort which is conducted by mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner and a national magazine.

The telegram said

"We are still not prepared to accept as true the confession of Donald Wedler, but following our examination of him in Florida, we admit to a growing conviction that he may well have committed the murder of Marilyn Sheppard

"However, no one should form any final opinion on this man (Wedler) until after there has been a lot more investigative work done and until there has been a psychiatric examination.

"There are some very important major conflicts between his story and existing facts.

Explains Decision

"These conflicts may have been the result of drug reactions and an attempt to rationalize his acts or just plain deception."

The governor said he discussed the telegram with Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ralph W. Alvis "and it is my opinion and his that until the truthfulness of this confession is determined there should be no lie detector test given to Sheppard."

"In the absence of a confession which has been found to be true," the governor said, "Sheppard is in the same position as any other prisoner in the Ohio Penitentiary".

O'Neill said there was a "conflict" of statements contained in earlier telegrams from the Court of Last Resort and the one he received today.

Some Similarity

O'Neill last week approved Dr. Sam's plea for a lie - detector test following Wedler's statements Wedler's story was similar in many details to Sheppard's story of how Marilyn Sheppard was killed.

Sheppard is serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary here for the murder of his wife in their Bay Village home near Cleveland on July 4, 1954.

Sheppard claimed a bushy-haired intruder came into their home, killed Marilyn and knocked him unconscious. Wedler said he broke into a home, beat a woman with a pipe, and struck her husband.

Cleveland authorities were skeptical of Wedler's story but Coroner Samuel R. Gerber, a key figure in building the state's case against Sheppard, planned to go to Florida to question Wedler.

Gerber and other Cleveland authorities had urged O'Neil to postpone the test or to permit representatives of the state to be present. O'Neill arranged for state officers to give the test and today he decided to postpon the test until Wedler's story could be checked.

"O'Neill said one previous wire stated there was "no slightest evidence of deception" in Wedler's statements while undergoing a lie detector test.

Change Position

The latest telegram, O'Neill said, "uses the language 'or just plain deception'."

The governor explained the earlier message said also there were only discrepancies in "minor details" of Wedler's story of how he murdered a woman in Cleveland thought to be Marilyn Sheppard.

"Now the Court of Last Resort says there are some very important major conflicts in his story," O'Neill said.

"On that basis," the governor told a hastily summoned news conference, "there will be no test given until the alleged confession in Florida is established as the truth."

"Who will determine when Wedler's confession is established as the truth?" a reporter asked the governor.

O'Neill replied, "When I am convinced."

Led by Scoutmaster Ray Purks, the boys reached their campsite Saturday morning. They plan to stay at Camp Conestoga for the next two weeks.

The Scouts, members of Troop 3, sponsored by the Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars, left the city early Thursday morning. They camped near Alverton on Thursday night, then spent Friday night at Kooser State Park near Somerset.

Except for a few blisters, the boys reported no ill effects from the long walk, which will earn them blazer and hiking merit badges.

The following scouts took part in the hike.

Traffic Heavy During Weekend; Seven Killed

By UNITED PRESS

Traffic was heavy on Pennsylvania highways during the week end as motorists sought relief at parks and resorts from the stifling heat.

Temperatures throughout the state climbed into the 90's Sunday, the fourth day of the heat wave.

At least seven persons were killed in highway accidents during the week end—a toll comparatively light for the heavy volume of traffic.

The fatalities:

Hanover: Donald E. Gladfelter, 17, Hanover RD1, was killed Sunday when an automobile in which he was a passenger went off Route 94, three miles south of Hanover, and hit two utility poles.

Lewistown: William A. Goodlander, 35, Enola, was killed Saturday in a head-on collision of his motorcycle and an auto on Route 22 near here. His son, William, 11, who was riding on the rear of the motorcycle, was injured critically.

Butler: Dallace Rowland, 40, of Alliquippa RD 2, was killed and 10 other persons were injured early Sunday in a collision of two automobiles on Route 422, nine miles west of Butler. Rowland was one of the drivers. Detained at Butler County Memorial Hospital were Charles Kirk, 26, Butler, the other driver, his wife, Agnes, and Rowland's wife, Evelyn.

Northampton: Michael Karpenko 32, a displaced person brought to the United States three years ago by the Ukrainian Church of Easton was killed when his car collided head-on with another car Saturday on Route 329 east of Northampton. The other driver, Richard Schadt, Coplay, was admitted to Hass Hospital in Northampton.

Kittanning: Thomas McAninch, 27, Vandergrift, was injured fatally Saturday when his auto ran off Alternate Route 66, three miles north of Vandergrift and struck a tree. He died several hours later in Armstrong County Memorial Hospital.

Kittanning: Louise Wolfe, 18, New Bethlehem, was killed Saturday night when an auto in which she was riding left a highway seven miles north of here and rolled down a 100-foot embankment. The driver, Larry Smith, 21, New Bethlehem RD 2, suffered minor injuries.

Washington, Pa.: Mrs. Mary Manfredi, 57, Fredericktown, Pa., was killed Friday night in a three-car collision on Route 40 east of here.

JAMBOREE SCOUTS LOOK AT SOUVENIRS — These 13 boys are a part of the 25 Arrowhead District Boy Scouts who returned late Friday from a 10-day stay at the National Jamboree at Valley Forge National Park. They are looking over some of the souvenirs and "swapped" patches gathered from other boys representing practically every state in the nation. These boys are (l. to r.) first row, David Rhome, Carl Jerkiewicz, Jerry Dropp, Marty Dudas, Terry Throop and C. L. Melenyzer. Second row (l. to r.) Eric Crabtree, David Palmer, Allen Throop, Eugene Ninchak, Bill Dawson, Ralph Fedorchak and Thomas Strauss.

District Scouts Return from Jamboree at Valley Forge

Twenty-five Boy Scouts from the Arrowhead District have returned home from an experience which probably many of them will never have again.

The boys arrived home late Friday night from the fourth National Jamboree held at historic Valley Forge National Park.

Their experiences will enable them to help hundreds of other Scouts who were not so fortunate and give them leadership qualities which could not be obtained otherwise.

The Scouts were just a few from the Westmoreland-Fayette Council who mingled with some 52,000 other Scouts from all over the nation and many foreign countries.

To listen to some of these boys' experiences is to yearn for the days when camping and scouting were the commonplace.

Many Features

Traveling by chartered bus the district scouts arrived at Valley Forge and pitched camp at the 2,033 acre site near Philadelphia. Tours of the historic park were just one of the many features of the week's encampment.

Supervised programs and athletic events occupied most of the Scouts time, but it was the spectacular evening programs in a natural 52,000 seat amphitheatre which stole the show.

The boys heard talks by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, former baseball great Bob Feller; Arthur Schuck, chief scout executive and many other famous personalities.

In addition, giant fireworks displays and impressive candlelight services were experiences to long remember.

The traditional "swapping" sessions and activities at the "trading post" helped to brighten many of the boys' lives.

'Swaps' Guinea Pig

Among the more notable "swaps" made by district boys were a guinea pig by David Rhome and a horned toad from boys representing the state of Texas by Thomas Strauss, both members of Troop 2, Monessen.

Numerous patches and neckerchief holders were swapped by other district lads.

The district boys mingled with boys from all over the world. Contacts were made with troops from Switzerland and with two unusual troops, one composed of blind boys and another made up of deaf boys.

The Arrowhead party included these boys:

William Dawson, Charles Melenyzer, David Palmer, David Rhome, Thomas Strauss, Terry Throop and Allen Throop, Troop 2, Monessen.

Martin Dudas, Rathael Fedorchak, Carl Jurkiewicz, Eugene Ninchak, Troop 9, Monessen;

Jerome Dropp, Troop 10, Monessen;

Eric Crabtree, Brownsville.

William Vizza, Donald Kimball, John Biggins, Jr., Denny Dayner, Byron Kibler, Greg Lacy, Troop 1, Belle Vernon,

Paul Jesick, Charles Keznor, Thomas Luzanski, Joseph Sedlak, Troop 1, Fairhope,

Regis Turcheck, Troop 1, Fayette City;

Richard Mains, Post 1, West Newton.

Two Accidents In the District Over Weekend

State Police reported two accidents in the area over the weekend.

A Philadelphia man, Michael M. Marmel, 25, was involved in a one-car accident on Route 31, just west of Monongahela, about 10 yesterday morning.

According to police, the Marmel car was traveling too fast for conditions when Marmel lost control, failed to negotiate a turn and struck an embankment. He was uninjured.

An oil-slick road near Eldora caused a two-car mishap Saturday, resulting in head injuries to an occupant.

Police said a car driven by Mary Perez, of Monongahela, skidded on a freshly oiled pavement on Route 837 and crashed into a rail fence.

A truck operated by Forrest Rodgers, 28, of Monessen, skidded on the same slippery road and rammed into the Perez vehicle, and then overturned.

Sara Ann Perez, 15, daughter of the Monongahela woman, suffered minor head injuries.

Total damage was placed at $1,500.

Bury Them Deep

EXTENSION of street improvements on Schoonmaker avenue will afford city officials another opportunity to try and get rid of our jungle of wires and poles in the downtown district.

Widening and resurfacing of some six blocks of this main thoroughfare will mean a major upheaval, the last time probably for more than a decade when the street will be torn up to this extent. It would be an excellent time to put telephone and power lines underground. Even the most casual observer of the downtown knows that eliminating the tangle of wires overhead would be an effective way of relieving congestion and improving the appearance of the district.

Several years ago when improvements were being made to another section of Schoonmaker avenue a similar opportunity existed for getting the lines underground. The project was rejected amid rumblings of the prohibitive cost. The cost, if indeed a study was actually made at all, was never made known to the public. Certainly the customers, who would be most concerned with the cost, never found out what it might have been. That portion is now repaved, and of course the cost of opening the street to tunnel lines is much greater than it would have been at the time.

We are aware that utilities, in addition to being regulated, also enjoy privileges in their operations. In such circumstances it is well that the utilities be at least as forward-looking as the communities they serve.

It is not altogether pleasant to drive through the newer sections of the city where large investments are being made in better homes and observe some of the monstrosities the utilities have been permitted to create. A clutter of wires and poles overhead and meters on front doorsteps simply have no place in a modern community where people want better things.

If the utilities do not want to put unsightly facilities underground, they can undoubtedly make a good case against doing so. It seems to us the obligation on city officials is not only to look at such facts as the utilities present, but in addition to use their best talents in bringing the utilities to the frame of mind where they actually want to see this done in Monessen. In that event the utilities could undoubtedly make a considerably stronger case for doing it.

Congress and the Purse

FUNDS which are unspent as yet but appropriated by past Congresses are estimated at $70 billion. This just about equals the Eisenhower budget proposal for fiscal 1958, but it's beyond the control of the President or of Congress either. It's money which the government has promised to pay, and of course the government's promise has to be kept.

It is this situation which former President Hoover had in mind at San Fransisco when he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors recently that Congress "has lost control of the purse."

If there is concern over the effect of the government spending some $72 billion through the budget, then the possibility of federal deparetments in any one fiscal year pouring out an additional $70 billion should compound the worry.

Mr. Hoover declares that government spending is a major factor in "the inflation movement now going on" and that it probably has reduced the purchasing power of the dollar by four or five cents in recent months. That includes not only the dollars the government spends but every dollar a taxpayer earns and the dollars of which he must give more and more in federal taxes if the monetary unit continues to lose ground.

A move has been made in Washington, through the urging of the Hoover Commission, to help restore to Congress control of the federal purse. It is a measure, approved by the Senate unanimously and now before the House, that would provide annual accrued expenditure budgeting. This would limit appropriations to a single year, even for long range projects, and require annual review of all spending.

This seems a sound practice which would keep a rein on runaway spending of future revenues.

On the Toy Front

DISARMAMENT agreements, if any, reached this year will not extend to the bag of toys from which American youngsters' Christmas gifts will come in December.

Word from the annual preview of the Toy Guidance Council is that the 600 items displayed reveal a heavy share of imitation nuclear weapons, jet planes, etc. Since young America is familiar with modern instruments of war, even pre-school children will have soldiers, guns and planes designed especially for them.

While there was a showing of non-military items, the emphasis in playthings unquestionably seems to be on "massive retaliation".

We have known for a long time that wars cost a lot of money. The armament paid for out of taxes bites heavily into the earnings of everyone. But parents of little ones will have additional reason for hoping that some international conference soon will produce effective disarmament.

Merry-Go-Round—

Natural Gas Vote Stirs Up Stock Trade

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If you read carefully what goes on in Wall Street and compare it with what happens in certain Congressional committees in Washington, you get an amazing chain of events.

Mr. Pearson

On Monday, July 8, the stock of the Superior Oil Company was listless. Only 200 shares were traded.

On Tuesday, July 9, the House Interstate Commerce Committee approved by a narrow margin the natural gas bill, which will increase gas rates to consumers by around $800,000,000 a year.

That same day, Superior Oil's stock galvanized into action. Either there was a leak from the committee or else very fast work after the committee voted. The stock shot up in value $30 a share. A total of 21,000 shares were traded.

Thursday, July 11, Superior Oil shot up again. This time 53,000 shares were traded. Other people had got wise. The price shot up another $40 per share.

Friday, July 12, showed even greater gains. The price advanced another $90 per share. Fifty thousand shares were traded.

Monday, July 15, topped them all. The price of Superior Oil went up $120, 42,000 shares traded, closing at a record high of $2,000 per share. After that profit-taking set in, the stock leveled off, though Superior Oil is still the highest priced stock on the Wall Street.

Behind Superior Oil

Now let's check back and see just who and what Superior Oil is. If you'll check your memory, Superior Oil is headed by Howard Keck, the man whose lobbyists tried to bribe Sen. Francis Case of South Dakota with $2,500 cash during the natural gas debate last year. For this attempted bribery, Elmer Patman and John Neff were fined $2,500 each but never went to jail. They were given one year suspended sentences by Ike's newly appointed judge, Joseph McGarraghy, and they were convicted not for trying to bribe a Senator, but for failing to register under the lobbying act. The corporation was also fined $10,000

But Howard Keck, whom these two lobbyists represented, was not tried. His money was involved, but Attorney General Brownell did not prosecute him. Keck had given $5,000 by check January 10 to the Eisenhower dinner. This was right in the middle of the gas battle. The check was accepted and cashed.

Senator McClellan's investigating committee, which has not hesitated to embarrass various other people, did not want to embarrass Mr. Keck or President Eisenhower. It did not go into the matter of his $5,000 check though I personally delivered a photostat of the check to McClellan's committee.

But if you read the stock-market returns, you can now understand why Keck could afford to give $5,000 to the Eisenhower dinner, plus an attempted $2,500 to Senator Case, plus more to some other candidates.

The Secret Vote

The vote of the House Interstate Commerce Committee which approved the natural gas bill and boosted the profits of Superior Oil is secret. No one is supposed to know how the Congressmen voted. However, I have the score card of their secret vote, and the folks back home who elect them may be surprised. Here are some of the surprises:

Democratic surprises: Leo O'Brien of Albany, N. Y., which needs natural gas, voted with Superior Oil and the gas companies.

Republican surprises: Charles Wolverton of Camden N. J., representing an area seriously dependent on gas, voted with Superior Oil. The bill will cost housewives and factories in his district millions of dollars.

Other Republican surprises: Alvin Bush and Joseph Carrigg, both of Pennsylvania, voted with Superior Oil; also William Springer of Illinois, Joseph O'Hara of Minnesota, and Robert Hale of Maine — all states badly needing gas.

Hale came within a handful of votes of being defeated last year partly because Maine residents resented his vote for the gas-oil companis. John Bennett of Michigan, a state where gas is badly needed, plus John Beamer of Indiana, also in need of gas, ducked out of voting. They were absent.

Kremlin Now More Formidable

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

From extremely diverse sources we are getting a remarkable measure of agreement on the meaning of the big shake-up in the Kremlin.

During the past week Secretary Dulles, Premier Nehru and a number of Soviet emigres and escapees have all advanced just about the same judgments on the wholesale reshaping of the Presidium — with Khrushchev and Zhukov on top.

Mr. Drummond

They agree that it is the most significant Soviet event since the downgrading of Stalin.

They agree that it reflects concessions to mass opinion in the Soviet Union which, while final authority over everything still rests in the Kremlin, means that this authority may be exercised less "arbitrarily."

When the American Secretary of State, the Prime Minister of India, and the Soviet emigres join in saying just about the same thing — that is quite a consensus.

Mr. Dulles sees the recent upheaval in the Soviet ruling group as reflecting the "powerful forces for change which are at work within Russia" and as constituting "an irreversible trend" which may ultimately alter the character of the regime itself.

'Normalcy' Trend

Mr. Nehru sees the removal of Malenkov, Molotov and Kaganovich — the principal remaining Stalinites — from the Presidium as a trend toward "normalcy," a trend which gives Soviet mass opinion consideration even if it does not give it participation, in Soviet policy-making.

The consensus of a large volume of Soviet emigre opinion also stresses the extent to which the Khrushchev leadership has gone to try to make life more tolerable and, to an extent, more comfortable for the Soviet people. They point out that Khrushchev found it useful "to make his enemies appear as opponents of these popular measures."

The measures to which the Soviet emigres refer are the decentralization of industry, some independence for the satellite Communist regimes, more authority for the Soviet republicans (Russian version of state rights), some check reins on the Security Police, increased housing, etc.

The net effect of the changes in the leadership confirms Khrushchev dominant power. None can say how this power will ultimately be used or to what end, but it is a power which presently rests upon concessions to widespread party opinion, to which he had to turn for support and widespread mass pressures throughout the country.

The prospect now is that Mr Khrushchev will be secure at the top for some time His vanquished rivals, representatives of the old Stalin guard — "the fundamentalists" as Mr. Dulles describes them — cannot count on any sympathy from the more or less broad party masses, let alone from the Soviet people as a whole.

'Liberal' Soviet

There still persists the question to which neither Mr. Dulles nor Mr. Nehru have addressed themselves. Does the shake-up in the Kremlin mean that the Soviet dictatorship is weaker or stronger and, in the sense that its purposes of subverting the world are unchanged, less dangerous or more dangerous?

The end result of the "irreversible trend," to which Mr. Dulles refers, may well be to moderate and liberalize the Soviet system. But I cannot escape the view that the ability of the Khrushchev regime to re-shuffle nearly half of the Presidium without liquidating anybody in the Stalin manner strongly indicates that for the present the dictatorship is thereby more resilient, more flexible, more capable of dealing with change without explosion than most people believed.

The judgment of many Soviet emigres is to the same effect. They cite as "the most important, through perhaps controversial, conclusion, that the shakeup does not weaken the regime, but on the contrary strengthens and consolidates it, at least at this stage."

This is why the Kremlin in light of what has happened is more formidable, not less formidable

The Lighter Side—

The Wonderful Supermarket

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Consider today the supermarket. Where will it all end? Will we eventually be able to have our palm read, get a turkish bath, or buy a helicopter in one of the things?

Probably so, if they continue expanding at the present rate.

Right now, there are supermarkets with nursery playrooms, snack shops, shopper lounges with upholstered seats, tropical fish tanks and bird houses to amuse the kids, and singing weather forecasts.

The supermarket allegedly began in 1930 in an abandoned garage in New York City. One of the early ones was called helpy-selfy.

Stove Is Missing

Across the country, the things have sprouted so many interior departments that they seem like an inflated edition of the old-fashioned country general store. The only thing that's lacking is a pot-bellied stove for philosophers to sit around.

One supermarket in Canada, with a country store air, even has a big bulletin board for customer use. It's filled with all kinds of notices about such things as what baby sitters are available, who's looking for whom, and what's on at the local movie.

There are supermarkets with booths at which you can pay your utility bills, buy automobile plates and hunting and fishing licenses, and even make deposits and withdrawals from the local bank. This last is on the word of Paul Sayres, a food broker, who makes frequent trips to marketing areas across the country.

A supermarket turned up in New Jersey, not long ago, selling fine art along with its vegetables, meats and insecticides. Another Jersey super-dooper has an underground conveyer. Milady parks her car, goes inside and shops, gets a receipt with a number on it, walks unburdened back to the car drives to a central station and gets her groceries delivered to the car by the conveyor.

Despite devices like this—which eliminate the shopping cart from the aisles — Sayres says a big problem of supermarkets now is traffic jams in the aisles. Some of this is due to bewildered wandering by customers in a mass of shelving and aisles.

He wouldn't be surprised at traffic lights in the aisles for peak buying periods, and possibly one-way aisles. Goodness sakes, maybe they'll have traffic cops, too.

Civil Rights Bill Is A Golden Opportunity

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Now that civil rights legislation is before the Senate, the crucial question is whether the leaders from the Southern states are willing to let a bill pass which is directed solely to securing and protecting the right of Negroes to vote. There have been some indications that Sen. Russell may be willing, after the Southern minority have argued their case, to let the majority of th Senate pass such a bill. There is, also, some reason to think that Sen. Lyndon Johnson is feeling his way towards a compromise based on limiting the substance of the bill to the single issue of suffrage in the Southern states.

Mr. Lippmann

By such a compromise the Southerners would be making a very big concession. But they would avoid, or at least postpone for some considerable time to come, what would amount to a decisive defeat on the whole range of civil rights issues. If they resorted to a filibuster to destroy a bill amended to deal only with federal voting, there is a very good chance, as Rowland Evans, Jr., reported in the New York Herald Tribune the other day, that they will provoke a movement to amend the rules of the Senate in order to abolish the right to filibuster.

If ever the rules are amended, the Southerners will be faced with a majority in the Senate which is prepared to use the federal power to enforce all the civil rights laws, including that against segregation in the public schools.

'Compromise' Defined

The South, therefore, has much to lose by being intransigent, and it has much to gain by a concession on the right to vote.

The word "compromise" needs to be defined. A genuine compromise would be an understanding that the bill should be amended by cutting out Part III, which deals with integration in the schools and other civil rights. Such an amendment would mean that the special feature of this bill — the use of injunction — would be limited to the cases where there is a denial by local election officials of the right to vote. The injunction procedure would not apply to the school problem, or to the other civil rights problems.

It would not be a true compromise, on the other hand, to cut out Part III, and then also to amend Part IV to require trials by jury in all election cases. That would amount to the emasculation of the bill, and would mean that Congress was passing a bill that was not meant to be enforced. Either the federal government is to have power to secure and protect the right to vote or it is not to have that power. That power can be, and should be, strictly defined. But there is no half-way station between granting and not granting the power.

Amended Bill

There may be in the making something bigger than a compromise on the bill which is now before the Senate. We may venture to hope that for the first time there exists an opportunity for something like a national settlement and understanding based on the inherent principle and implied policy of an amended bill.

The principle of the amended bill would be that the paramount civil right of an American citizen is the right to vote. If he can qualify under rules that are the same for all, the right to vote is his guarantee that he will be heard and listened to and counted.

The corollary of this principle that the right to vote is the paramount civil right is that the other civil rights are not to be enforced by the executive power of the federal government. They are to be brought into being by persuasion, experiment, negotiation, and by judicial process.

It would be a bright day for the country if there could be a general national understanding based on such a view of the scope and nature of federal intervention in the problem of civil rights. There are great reputations to be made by those, be they in Congress or in the Administration, who seize the opportunity which is open, and make themselves the architects of such an understanding.

Behind The News—

Communism Thrown for Big Loss in Tibet

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Communism has been thrown for a big loss in Tibet.

The Chinese Reds who invaded the little Himalayan country in 1950 have confessed that it is not ready for the Marxist way of life.

Consequently, the Peiping government is withdrawing most if not all of its occupation troops and many of its civilian personal.

Mr. McCann

Tibet will remain under Chinese sovereignty. But Tibetan troops are replacing Red troops in the cities and Tibetan officials are administering the country's internal affairs.

China always has claimed sovereignty over Tibet, nestled 15,000 feet up in the Himalayan mountains.

But the Manchus and the Nationalists who succeeded them never moved to exert the control they claimed.

Reds Assert Claim

The Chinese Communists finally got around to asserting their claim to sovereignty in October, 1950.

To the dismay of "neutralist" Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, the Communists invaded Tibet in force.

They announced that they intended to inaugurate in Tibet a "golden era," with all the blessings of Communism.

After some determined opposition, largely by hastily-organized Guerrilla bands, the Reds overran the country and occupied Lhasa, the capital.

But there were persistent uprisings in the provinces. In the cities, officials did everything they could to make the invaders aware that they were unwelcome.

Rough Policy Unwise

Partly because of their friend Nehru, the Chinese thought it unwise to get too rough.

Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai visited India last December. The two joint rulers of Tibet, the Dalai Lama and the Panchen Lama, visited India then also. They demanded that China take home its 100,000 occupation troops. Chou promised to consider it.

The two lamas are the temporal and spiritual rulers of Tibet, which technically is a theocracy. Under the Lamaist religion, an offshoot of Buddhism, they are considered divine.

Mon Valley D. A. R. Sets Redecoration

Plans have been announced by the Monongahela Valley Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the redecoration of a room in the Fort Necessity national monument.

The chapter is one of the groups responsible for the room in this building located on Rt. 40 out of Uniontown. This new redecoration project was recently adopted by the women.

In order to raise the necessary funds a membership card party is being arranged on Wednesday afternoon, July 31, at Century Inn, Scenery Hill. Play is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p. m.

Serving on the committee are Mrs. Vernon S. Eagye, of Charleroi, who will have charge of ticket sales there along with Mrs. A. J. Frazier, of Bentleyville, general chairman; Mrs. O. C. Taylor, of Monongahela, co-chairman; Frances R. Williams, of Monongahela, general ticket chairman; Charlotte Swan, of Monessen, Mrs. Russell J. Ruff, of Donora; Mrs. Gordon Harrington, of Scenery Hill and Mrs. Ray Carson, of Monongahela.

Mrs. Kenyon Nicholl, of Bentleyville, regent of the chapter, announced plans for the affair.

The museum is a National Pike Inn, and is more than a century old. It was erected to replace another inn that had been built on the Old Cumberland Trail about a mile away. Only the foundation of the latter building remains, but it is known to have housed many historical travelers, who followed the Indian trails.

Mrs. Eagye is chairman of the museum committee of the valley chapter.

In addition to raising money for the redecoration, which will include new wallpaper and paint, the chapter is asking for authentic pieces to add to the present furnishings.

The room was dedicated many years ago in honor of Mrs. W. J. Alexander, of Monongahela, who had served as Pennsylvania State Regent of the D.A.R., and also in the capacity of National Vice Regent.

Only authentic middle 18th century furnishings can be accepted for the room or the entire effect of the museum will be destroyed.

The committee has planned the card party on July 31, as a dessert bridge, and an invitation has been extended to the members, who are not card players, to spend an informal hour at the inn.

"BEAUTY IDEAS"

By James V. Bonafed

Think all beauty ideas are new? Well they're not. Women have been seeking ways to stay lovely all through history. But would you believe it . . . some women still use the out-moded beauty methods their grandmothers did!

-o-

The twentieth century brought about many changes. Scientists and research chemists who choose the chemistry of hair and skin for their life work! Your should benefit from this modern bonanza!

-o-

In the year One B. C., Roman women ordered barley from Libya, added legumen mixed with ten eggs, dried the mixture and ground it. Then they added the "live horn of one deer", 12 peeled, pulverized narcissus bulbs, two ounces of gum mixed with tuscan seed, and 18 ounces of honey. This was the Roman's beauty facial cream! Today the ingredients of your creams are created and tested by experts. All you have to do is ask for it!

-o-

Hair colour in the year One B. C.? Prematurely grey ladies used "imported herbs". Infrequent, and inadequate shampoos and lack of today's research chemists caused many to lose their hair. Some Roman matrons owned wardrobes of brightly colored wigs!

Today you can "try on an exciting new hair colour". Just ask us for a colour creme rinse. We'll help you select the shade most flattering to your skin tone. This modern miracle rinses colour and highlights into your hair. Then if you decide you'd prefer another shade, we simply rinse away the present colour with your next shampoo!

-o-

Permanent waving is the greatest miracle of our twentieth century! This forward step in hair beauty has done more to make women attractive than any other beauty art. The wave we choose for you is as correct as a doctor's prescription. The lotion is scientifically formulated for your hair condition. The amount of curl is the amount you wish. All you need do is "order" new hair beauty when you come to our modern beauty salon!

'Hawks Showed Lack of Interest

Mon Valley Conference school principals want it understood that Redstone was not actually "kicked out" of the Big Six set-up. They, (the principals) make it plain that the 'Hawks were invited to attend the first meeting held by the school heads to reorganize the conference several months back but failed to attend. Neither was Redstone represented at subsequent meetings. Hence, the failure to again extend the 'Hawks an invitation. Results of the voting on Redstone's entering the new conference organization are secret, as to which schools voted and for and against the 'Hawks, but it is rumored Monessen and Monongahela were none too anxious to meet the Blackhawks after the present contracts expire, for various reasons other than gridiron success or failure against Redstone.

New PGA Champion Settles Old Score

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—This was 20 years ago in a barnyard in the little town of Lafayette, La., and the big, skinny kid was mad.

He was milking the cow, the bucket was almost filled and he needed another pail. To make it worse, his chubby little brother had swiped his one and only golf club—a beat-up driver which was his most precious possession—and was hitting stones with it.

"Hey," 14-year-old Jay Hebert shouted at 9-year-old Lionel. "You put down my club and get me another pail."

Lionel just kept on swinging, called over his shoulder. "Let me be, I'm playing golf."

"Get me a pail," the big brother yelled, 'cause if I stop this durned cow won't give any more milk. If you don't, I'm gonna catch you and whup your tail."

Lionel ignored him and kept on swinging. Jay eventually filled the bucket, stopped milking and caught little Lionel and, as promised, "whupped his tail."

Still Swinging

But Lionel Hebert, 29 years old now, is still swinging — as the newly - crowned PGA champion. Only this time he "whupped Jay's tail."

For Jay finished no better than seventh as Lionel Sunday captured the most coveted championship of his profession by beating young Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio 2 and 1.

Lionel is a husky 185 - pounder now, a handsome, dark - haired man who still retains a certain amount of that boyhood chubbiness on his five-foot, eight-and-one-half inch frame. He has two children of his own now, a son, Glenn, seven, and a daughter, Jacqueline, five. And he has come a long, far piece from that barnyard in Louisiana.

This victory, worth $8,000, boosted him to 15th among the year's money winners with earnings of $10,968, and assured him a coveted spot on the Ryder Cup team. All of which is a payoff on his decision to "make a name in this game or give up."

He had been in LSU, as a trumpet - playing music major, when he went into service for two years in 1946. Jay has been a Marine captain wounded in the legs at Iwo Jima. Lionel was a sergeant in the medical corps and was stationed in Japan.

Returning to LSU after his hitch, he switched to a bookkeeping course at Southwestern Institute but then turned golf pro in 1950 and worked with Johnny Bulla at Pittsburgh for four years.

Musial's Streak Snapped?

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The game that would end the consecutive game streak of Stan (The Man) Musial remains uncompleted today, leaving official records in a state of suspension.

The veteran Cardinal first sacker appeared in the first game of a double-header against the Pirates Sunday, bringing his National League record streak to 862 games. However, he didn't play in the nightcap, which was suspended in the ninth inning because of Pennsylvania's 7 p.m. Sunday curfew.

The game will not be completed until August 27, when the Cards and Pirates meet again.

Musial said after the game that he might take a turn at bat, because with the Cards being so far ahead he would bat only once before playing in the regular night game, which will begin immediately after completion of the suspended game.

Sticks to Decision

However, the Cardinal "iron man" added, "If the game had been completed—even with only two outs remaining — I wouldn't have played. I'm sticking by my decision not to play double-headers in hot weather, and it sure was hot there."

The temperature hit 92 degrees in Pittsburgh.

The question of Stan's consecutive status has come up in another quarter. Seymour Siwoff, editor of little Red Book of Official Baseball Records, said in New York that if Musial does play in the finish of the suspended game, a special three-man committee on records may decide the question.

Siwoff says the committee is to be appointed by the Baseball Writers of America.

Wanted Hit

But Musial appeared more concerned over failing to get a hit in the first game than extending his record.

He needs one hit to reach 2,900. "I would have liked to have had that one in front of the many home-town friends from Donora (Pa.) who came to see me play," he said.

Pricedale Tops Washington by 2-1

Art Doty pitched three-hit ball as the Pricedale entry defeated the Washington Softball League All-Stars 2-1 in a feature of the Spanish Fiesta celebration at Palmer Park, Donora, yesterday. It was a well-played game in which Strang of Pricedale garnered the only extra base blow, a double.

Nothing definite has been announced as yet concerning the All-Star team which will meet a Monessen City League team on a date to be announced.

Mon-Yough Preps in 2-1 Playoff Victory

Mon-Yough's Prep League All-Stars advanced to the semi-finals in District A play Saturday with a 2-1 victory over Greensburg at Charleroi Stadium.

Bud Morrison gave up seven hits against Leschock's five for the losers but kept them well-scattered. The Smithton-Jacobs Creek League hurler fanned five batters as did the losing pitcher.

M-U Scores First

The Mon-Yough stars scored first, getting one in the second inning when Len Rechichar of the Smithton-Jacobs Creek circuit singled home Harold Snowden (S-JC League) although Snowden had to "dump" the Greensburg catcher causing him to drop the ball after a perfect strike by outfielder Palcic on the throw-in.

Taking a 2-0 lead in the third on Timmy Lee's sacrifice fly which Ron Cosner, Art Artis, who had singled. Four Charleroi League players featured in the third inning scoring with Artis, Lee, Dave Felak and Ron Cosner combining talents to score the run.

Only Greensburg Run

Leshock scored Greensburg's only marker when he singled and advanced on a passed ball and two infield outs. Fielder's choices.

Cosner's triple and a double by Palcic were the only extra-base blows of the game.

The M-Y team now advances to a test with Big Sewiskley at New Stanton tomorrow night. The locals had already defeated Big Sewickley but the Prep Tourney is a double-elimination event hence a second meeting between the two teams. Sewickley hasn't lost since the M-Y defeat.

Brownsville PONY All-Stars Win, 12-2

Brownsville defeated Greene County, 12-2, Saturday in a Pony League District Seven elimination playoff encounter.

The winners were sparked by Fred Mazurek's three-hit pitching and a trio of homers by as many players that accounted for six tallies.

Brownsville will face the winner of today's Vesta-Masontown game Thursday at Brownsville. The district finals are Wednesday, July 31.

Guiffrida Stars For Visitors on Mound, at Bat

Young Chuck Guiffrida had too much for the Monessen PONY League All-Stars at Ninth Street Park here Saturday evening as he pitched and batted his Donora PONY mates to a 9-1 victory to advance to second round play in District 7.

Donora will now meet the winner of the Ellsworth-Monongahela game, set for Wednesday night. The locals bow out of tourney play.

Two Doubles, Homer

At Ninth Street Saturday, Guiffrida allowed only three hits, fanning 16 batters and walking only five. In addition he paced a 10-hit attack on Monessen tossers, Rich Bass and Tony Romasco, as he collected four for four, including two doubles and a home run with the sacks loaded.

Taking a 2-0 lead in the first inning, Donora increased it to 4-0 in the third, added four more in the fourth and, after the locals had tallied once in the bottom of the fourth, came back with another in the sixth.

Five Monessen errors hurt the Locals' chances considerably.

Guiffrida did not allow a hit until the fourth when Andrew Carrollo doubled, advanced to third on two errors and scored on Rich Bass' single. Nick Cullen was the only local batter to hit safely.

Eddie Niziolek, shortstop for Manager Bob Pastor's lads, also hit for the circuit.

Changes Prove Futile

Monessen's co-managers Nick Cullen (Ravens) and Angelo Leone (CIO) tried desperately to pull the game out of the fire with frequent changes in the lineup but to no avail. Guiffrida, who had hurled a two-hitter against the high school here in WPIAL competition simply had too much.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Poor Club-Choice

On shots of 60 to 110 yards into a stiff wind, it isn't often wise to hit the ball with a full stroke. Let's say, for instance, that you're 90 yards from the hole, and you've got a 20-mile wind blowing straight toward you. You decide on a nine-iron to cover the distance.

Before you take a nine-iron, picture in your mind the curve the shot will take. Hit normally, his shot will go high; and, lacking forward power, the shot will be at the mercy of the wind. Furthermore, if the shot is hit off-line at all, the wind will only magnify the error.

Better play a three-quarter seven-iron in this case. Then you can keep the ball lower and keep it on a more even course in the wind.

Not only will you be more accurate with a less-than-full shot into a strong wind, but youll also be better able to guage the amount of power to b applied.

Crocker, Smith Cop HWFB Title

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UP)—Fay Crocker and Marilynn Smith saved their lowest bid for the fourth round and shot an eight - under womens' par 66 Sunday to win the Homestead Women's Four - Ball golf championship.

They went into the final round trailing the 54-hole leaders, Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., and Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif. by five strokes. Misses Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, and Smith of Wichita, Kans., brought their 72-hole total to a 15-under women's par 281 with their sensational performance Sunday. They finished four strokes ahead of the second-place Suggs-Wright combination.

The victory brought them $1,500 of the $7,500 prize money. The runners-up collected $1,050.

Courchesne-Bell In St. Nick's Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Bobby Courchesne and Bobby Bell, two hard-luck featherweights trying desperately to smash back into the winning column, meet tonight in a 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Betting is at "even money." Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., is the harder puncher; but Bell of Washington, D.C. has advantages of speed and skill.

Each lost his last three bouts. Courchesne, 22, registered a surprise victory over lightweight Johnny Busso on Jan. 7. But he suffered cuts in his next two bouts and was stopped by Isidro Martinez and Russ Tague, and then lost a decision to Lulu Perez. Bell, 28, lost three straight decisions to Rudy Garcia, Paul Jorgensen and Cherif Hamia of France.

'Heavy' Action At District Golf Courses

Golf action was heavy on the Monongahela Country Club course over the weekend.

First of all pairings were announced by Pro Frank Bruno for the annual women's championship.

Secondly, the Monongahela golfers defeated Washington Country Club, 61½-45½ in a return match at the MVCC course. This was a revenge victory as Washington had clubbed the Mon Valley team earlier in the season.

Ed Betus has a 72 Sunday and Mike Giba a 75 Saturday to pace the weekend kicker's events.

Meanwhile in other district action, on the Nemacolin course, John Melga and Andy Tokar won in kickers handicap play while 14 best hole scores were Emil Kapcar, 47, Wray Zelt 48, B. Lutes 48 and A. Spragg 49.

Women's championship pairings at MVCC follow:

Mrs. Parent (defending champion) vs. Miss Suzy Williams.

Miss Barbara Roop vs. Mrs. D. Turri.

Mrs. A. S. Sickman vs. Mrs. J. Salay.

Mrs. J. Curry, bye.

Mrs. J. F. Schully vs. Mrs. J. Hutchison.

Miss Janie Williams vs. Mrs. C. Williams.

Mrs. R. Polaski vs. Mrs. H. Underwood.

Mrs. H. Pore, bye.

Mrs. Schully had the low qualifying score of 42-47—89.

Other scores were:

Mrs. Sickman 45-48—93.
Mrs. R. Polaski 50-47—97.
Miss Roop 50-50—100.
Janie Williams 54-50—104.

Redlegs Back in Thick of National League Flag Race

By FRED DOWN

The Cincinnati Redlegs were being counted out of the National League race a week ago but they're right back in the thick of it today because of their surprising ability to cope with doubleheaders.

The experts figured Birdie Tebbetts' "patch-work" pitching staff would buckle under the pressure of the bargain bills.

The Redlegs, however, roared back into solid contention when they whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2 and 6-4, Sunday and now show a remarkable .818 won-lost record for double-headers.

The latest sweep — giving the Redlegs seven wins in nine games since they ended a seven - game losing streak on July 12—lifted the Redlegs into fourth place, two games behind the first - place Braves. The Phillies, jolted by six losses in their last seven games, fell 3½ games off the pace.

Braves Bounce Back

The Braves bounced back from a 5-4 loss to down the New York Giants, 7-4, and retain their one-game lead over the Dodgers who beat the Chicago Cubs, 7-2, after a 5-4 setback, while the third-place St. Louis Cardinals downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, and led, 11-2, when their nightcap was suspended in the ninth inning by the Pennsylvania curfew law.

The Chicago White Sox defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3-0, and moved to within 4½ games of first place in the American League when the New York Yankees split a double-header with the Cleveland Indians. The Yankees won the opener, 4-3, but bowed in the nightcap, 7-4, before 51,670 fans. The Detroit Tigers beat the Washington Senators, 6-5, and the Kansas City Athletics scored a 3-2 victory after losing, 7-2, to the Baltimore Orioles in other AL games.

Brooks Lawrence gained credit for his 11th win for the Redlegs in the opener with the aid of homers by George Crowe and Gus Bell and Art Fowler picked up his first win in the nightcap as Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post and Roy McMillan had three hits each. Robin Roberts was tagged with his seventh straight loss and 13th of the year while Harvey Haddix dropped his seventh decision.

Five Straight Hits

Shortstop Johnny Logan lashed in the sixth inning was the big blow for the Indians who played out five straight hits to spark the Braves to their victory after Hank Sauer's two-run, ninth-inning single enabled the Giants to take the opener. Willie Mays and Ray Jablonski homered to kayo Lew Burdette in the nightcap but Ernie Johnson came on to win his sixth game. Stu Miller won his fourth game for the Giants.

Clem Labine pitched five shutout relief innings to notch his fifth victory for the Dodgers after homers by Walt Moryn, Chuck Tanner and Lee Walls helped hand Carl Erskine his second defeat. Moe Drabowsky, celebrating his 22nd birthday, won his sixth game for the Cubs although he needed help in the late innings.

Don Blasingame knocked in four runs to spark the Cardinals in their opener and Ken Boyer, Ed Kasko and pitcher Lindy McDaniel had four hits each in the suspended nightcap which will be completed Aug. 27. The Cardinals had one out in the ninth when the second game was suspended.

Jim Wilson followed up Saturday's one-hitter by Dick Donovan with a three-hitter that gave the White Sox their second straight shutout victory over the Red Sox. Wilson had a no-hitter for six innings before Frank Malzone broke the spell with a single and scored his 10th win.

Avila Sparks Tribe

Bob Avila's bases - filled triple before their biggest home crowd in two years. Homers by Gil McDougald and Elston Howard plus Bob Grim's classy relief job gave the Yankees the opener and they led into the last of the sixth of the nightcap with the help of Mickey Mantle's 25th homer of the year. Ray Narleski, relief ace of the Tribe, went all the way in the second game to win his sixth game.

Rookie Jim Heise of the Senators walked in the winning run in the 10th inning after the Tigers tied the score at 5-5 with three ninth-inning runs. The victory went to Harry Byrd, his third for the Tigers in less than a month.

Bob Cerv's two-run pinch home run in the seventh inning gave the Athletics their triumph after Hector Brown scattered six hits for the Orioles in the first game.

Temple Twists Neck

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A twisted neck suffered by second baseman Johnny Temple of the Redlegs during the opening game of a double-header with the Phillies Sunday was termed "not serious" and was not expected to keep him out of action Monday.

Gonzales Hands Hoad Third Loss

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UP) — Pancho Gonzales proved again that he is king of the pro tennis world and now promoter Jack Kramer can only hope that big Pancho doesn't turn out to be a financial prophet, too.

Gonzales completed a 5-0 clean sweep in Kramer's "Tournament of Champions" Sunday by whipping Jack's new rookie gate attraction, Lew Hoad of Australia, 9-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

That was the third beating in five matches in the tourney for fair - haired Hoad. And Kramer must remember painfully that Gonzales warned him this might happen. Pancho didn't want to play in the tournament because he thought losses suffered by Hoad might hurt the gate for the Gonzales - Hoad world tour starting next winter.

Curfew Saves Bucs From Double Loss

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pennsylvania 7 p.m. curfew prevented the St. Louis Cardinals from making a clean sweep of Sunday's double-header with the Pirates. The visitors took the first game, 7-3, and were leading, 11-2, with one out in the ninth inning of the nightcap when the game was suspended.

In the first match, little Don Blasingame overcame a slump and paced his team to victory with four runs batted in. The nightcap was suspended with the Cards having one man on and one out. Play will resume Aug. 27 when the two teams will finish up prior to a regularly scheduled night game.

Stan Goes Hitless

The curfew also kept intact Stan Musial's consecutive game record. He had sat the game out after going hitless in the opener—his 862nd straight game. A hit would have brought to 2,900 the total number of hits in his major league career.

Even if the Donora "iron man" does bat in the finish of the suspended game, the ultimate decision may be up to a three - man committee on rules appointed by the Baseball Writers Assn. of America.

The Cards took the first game with a four-run 10th inning after it went into extra innings tied at 3-3. Blasingame hit a bases-loaded single off Bob Friend. Two of the runs were unearned.

Willard Schmidt was credited with the win, his eighth, and Luis Arroyo took the loss, his ninth against three victories.

10 Walks for Cards

In the second game, Lindy McDaniel held the Bucs to six hits, while his teammates slapped out 17 hits and drew 10 walks. The 21-year-old bonus hurler contributed four hits in five at-bats and drove in two runs.

The visitors got four runs in the second, two in the third, three in the sixth and two in the eighth, while the Pirates got their two runs in the first on a walk, a double, a grounder and an error.

Gamble Pays Off for New PGA Champion

By LEO H. PETERSEN

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—The biggest gamble Lionel Hebert ever made paid off today — with the PGA golf championship.

The 29-year-old golfer from the bayou country of Louisiana gave us his job as a club pro at Erie, Pa., a year ago, determined "to make a name for myself."

He did it Sunday when he defeated the 27-year-old Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final match for the $8,000 first-place money that goes to the winner of this five - day match play grind.

And he did it like a champion, too. Having breakfast with his brother Jay, who is five years older, on Wednesday before teeing off in the first round, he promised, "I'm going to win this one."

He did—while Jay finished seventh—a difference of $6,500.

Credits Jay

"But I owe anything I'll ever be in golf to Jay," Hebert added. "He encouraged me and kept me going. Then I decided being a club pro was never going to make me rich so I gave up my job in Erie, because it limited me to playing only the winter tour, and decided to go all out. I decided I'd make a name for myself in this game I love and if I didn't, well, I could always go back to bookkeeping."

He chose golf over both music and bookkeeping, and today he's glad he did.

Driving well, and using a putter which he only picked up after arriving in Dayton on Monday, he was six under par as he closed out the lanky Finsterwald Sunday over the sun-baked 6,773-yard Miami Valley golf course.

Finsterwald evened the match when Hebert trapped his approach on the 30th. But on the 145-yard 31st, Hebert put his eight iron tee shot 18 feet from the cup and sank the putt. Finsterwald, also using an eight iron, was 15 feet away and missed the putt.

Makes It 2 Up

Both birdied the next two holes but Hebert made it 2 up at the 34th when Finsterwald drove the rough and put his second under a foot bridge. Although given a free lift, Finsterwald was too strong with his third, while Hebert was on in two and two-putted for his par. But Dow chipped past the pin and missed the putt. That put Hebert 2 up with only two holes to go.

Hebert, deciding "I'll play it safe," used a five iron on the 170-yard par three 35th. "I'd been using a six iron before, but decided to choke a five for I figured if I put the ball on the green and two-putted, I'd close it out."

As it turned out, he did just that. Finsterwald's tee shot went over the green about two feet. He chipped on to within four feet. Hebert's first putt was three feet short, but after Dow sank his four footer, Lionel canned his for victory.

For finishing runner-up Finsterwald received $5,000.

RUNS FASTEST MILE — Drek Ibbotson, 24-year-od British, R. A. F. private, breaks the tape and sets a world record for th mile at 3:57.2, leading three runners through the four-minute barrier. The unprecedented feat was accomplished at a U. S.-British track and field meet in London. Ibbotson broke the old record of 3:58, which John Landy of Australia had set in finland, on June 21, 1954.

Final Arguments in Segregational Trial For the Government

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—The government tells an all-white jury today that the appearance of badges reading "Keep our white schools white" on the blouses and jackets of Clinton High School students set off racial disorders last winter.

The government also claims, in final arguments of the Clinton segregational trial, that the violence climaxed a conspiracy in which John Kasper was a brooding figure behind the scenes.

The case of New Jersey-born Kasper and 10 Clinton area residents goes to the jury of 10 men and two women Tuesday. All of today was allotted to closing arguments. U.S. Atty. John C. Crawford said he expected to sum up in two hours.

Then would come the defense barrage, with the dozen or more lawyers for the Clintonians taking three hours. One hour was assigned to J. Benjamin Simmons of Washington, representing Kasper.

The 11 are charged with violating an injunction by U.S. District Judge Robert Love Taylor not to interfere with the court-ordered integration of Clinton High School. It is the first important enforcement test of the Supreme Court's 1954 judgment that segregation of the public schools is illegal.

The case appeared to hinge on whether conspiracy has been proved. The government admitted when it rested its case that it did not have enough evidence to link up four of the original 15 defendants with Kasper and they were dismissed. A young expectant mother was excused earlier.

But Crawford contended there was evidence putting all the others in association with Kasper close enough to imply a conspiracy.

D. J. Brittain Jr., resigned principal of the high school, testified there was no trouble from September until November when some white students came to school wearing segregation badges. Other witnesses said the badges were provided by defendant Raymond Wood at a meeting of a youth organization which Kasper helped found.

Mellon Gift to Penn University

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Richard King Mellon Foundation of Pittsburgh, has given 50 thousand dollars to the development program of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, University President Gaylord P. Harnwell announced Sunday night.

The gift increases the amount of total contributions to $1,150,000. The law school's building campaign goal is $2,500,000.

The money is to be used for the modernization and enlargement of the Law School's 56-year-old building and the erection of a student dormitory and dining hall.

The Richard King Mellon Foundation was established in 1948 by the chairman of the Mellon National Bank.

Princess' Escort Is 'Exiled' to Cyprus

By JOHN D. PARRY

LONDON (UP)—Lord Patrick Beresford, favorite escort of Princess Margaret during the current season, has been transferred to Cyprus in a move expected to still reports that they might become engaged.

He is the second of the Princess' boyfriends to be sent abroad. The first was Group Capt. Peter Townsend who was named air attache at the British Embassy in Brussels when news of their romance filled the gossip columns.

Beresford's "exile" brought the tart comment from the London Daily Express today that "being a friend of the princess seems to be a qualification these days for a ticket to far off places."

Will Solve Problem

The 23-year-old Beresford, nearly four years Margaret's junior, is a lieutenant in the Royal Horse Guards Regiment. British sources said his assignment abroad will solve a palace problem since constant association of his name with the princess has caused acute embarrassment.

Rumors of their engagement grew so strong last week that dozens of reporters camped out in front of Buckingham Palace through the night in expectation of getting an early morning announcement. But there was none and it was learned later Beresford was at his ancestral home in Ireland at the time.

Informed sources said the "exile" of young Lord Patrick and that of Townsend was far different. Townsend was sent to Brussels from his post as an equerry to the royal household because the romance strained the strict British royal protocol which forbids royal marriages with divorced persons.

Beresford remains highly eligible. He is young, handsome, titled and there is no taint of divorce. He has huge land holdings and is independently wealthy. A marriage into the royal family probably would bring him a higher title.

Beresford has been Margaret's constant escort this season at parties, theaters and race meetings. He stayed with the royal family at Windsor Castle during Ascot Race week and later dated the princess as often as three times a week.

Then word spread that Beresford had been invited to a private dinner party being given by Queen Elizabeth II last week to welcome home Queen Mother Elizabeth from an African tour. This sounded like a "meet the family" occasion and rumors of the impending engagement spread.

Marine Probe Turned Down By Congressman

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee was reported today to have turned down a demand for a congressional investigation into new charges of brutality at the Marine training base at Parris Island, S.C.

The American Civil Liberties Union charged Sunday night that there was "widespread" brutality at the base from Jan. 1 to May 1, 1956, and called on Congress to look into the matter.

Some congressmen noted that most of the period cited was prior to the highly - publicized "death march" of April 6, 1956, which resulted in the drowning of six recruits.

Since that time, they said, the Marine Corps has set up new training reforms aimed at doing away with brutality by drill instructors.

The ACLU sent key lawmakers a special report quoting a majority of 124 former Marines who were polled as saying that slapping, hitting and kicking of recruits were common incidents at the base during the period cited.

Vinson said he had written the Civil Liberties Union a letter of reply which he would make public today.

He was quoted as saying "I replied that evidence they had seemed to relate to the period before the changes and improvements were made. I feel there has been a real improvement in the situation and I see nothing new in their information to investigate."

Clark Claims World Watching Rights Debate

PHILADELPHIA (UP — Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) said in a prepared statement read here Sunday that the entire world is watching closely the Senate's debate on civil rights legislation.

The statement was read by Michael Byrne, Clark's executive assistant, to a mass meeting in the Zion Baptist Church sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"We talk glibly in the United Nations and elsewhere of the benefits of freedom and democracy and our belief in the equality of all races, yet here at home we are denying to a substantial segment of our population that freedom, democracy and equal protection of the laws we supposedly champion," the statement said.

The meeting here was one of seven held throughout the nation under the auspices of the NAACP.

Tomato Inspection Underway

By UNITED PRESS

An inspection of more than 1,000 acres of tomato plants being grown for certified seed to be used in the 1958 tomato crop is currently underway and will continue through mid-August.

C. F. Campbell, in charge of seed certification of the State Department of Agriculture, said the exact total acreage to be inspected this year will not be determined until the first field inspections are completed.

However, Campbell said the acres inspected this year would approximate the 1956 total of 1,171 acres inspected. Of that number, 802 acres passed certification requirements.

The inspection program is designed to aid producers in growing better products and assure quality tomatoes and tomato products for consumers.

Under the State Seed Certification Act, growers must be able to guarantee seed with a germination of 85 per cent or more and show a purity of not less than 98 per cent.

Campbell said inspectors would also determine if the crop is of uniform quality and that no plants of another variety are growing in the same acreage.

Pennsylvania is one of seven states in the nation with a seed certification law.

Oak Wilt

A recent survey by state and federal officials brought some encouraging reports in the battle against the eradication of Oak Wilt disease in the state.

State Secretary of Agriculture William L. Henning, Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, director of the Bureau of Plant Industry, and Clair Allison of the Department of Forestry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, flew over more than 15 counties last week to determine the spread of the disease.

Henning lauded state and federal workers for the parts they are playing in eliminating Oak Wilt, which is a fungus disease that attacks all species of oak trees. It was first founded in Pennsylvania in 1950.

The state official said Pennsylvania has the lowest per "spot" infection rate in the nation. It costs Pennsylvania taxpayers an estimated $32 per infection for both survey and eradication, Henning said, while costs run as high as $90 per infection in some states.

The officials also flew over many areas in the state to locate gypsy moth caterpillar damage. Earlier in the year, 230,000 acres of land in three counties were sprayed with DDT to check the destructive moth.

Steel Sales for July to Surpass Earlier Estimates, Expert Says

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — Steel magazine predicted today that steel sales for the month of July will surpass the estimates made earlier in the first quarter because of an unexpected upturn in demand during the month.

The weekly production pointed out that the improvement in sales volume is not isolated, but that it comes from "a wide group of consumers."

Coinciding with this prediction, steel ingot production edged upward for the second consecutive week after hitting the year's low in the first part of July. Operations in the industry's mills were reported up a half point to 81 per cent of rated capacity. The total outturn amounted to 2,073,000 net tons, the metalworking weekly said.

Products such as hot-rolled and cold-rolled carbon steel sheets and hot-rolled and cold-finished carbon bars were reported sharing in the production increase.

Demand for heavy plates for the week was not as strong as earlier in the year, Steel said, but it was reported still exceeding supply and was "expected to do so through the fourth quarter."

The magazine said many producers expect increased demand by auto makers for sheet steel supplies. For this reason, the publication noted, strip mill plates are not as easy to get as they were a few weeks ago. Th strip mill plates and sheets are both produced on the same equipment.

The cement industry strike has forced a temporary easing in the demand for structurals and reinforcing bars, Steel said.

Steel prices continue to be adjusted upward, with the publication's base price index for finished steel moving up to 45 cents. At $146.19 a net ton in the week ended July 17. It was $145.74 the previous week and $140.24 a month ago. The metalworking publication said warehouses are beginning to mark up prices to pass on increases from the mills.

First effects of the air force shift in emphasis from aircraft to missiles are being felt, Steel pointed out.

The publication said "declining use of subcontractors is expected" because of scheduled layoff of 15,600 workers by North American Aviation, Inc.

Industries hardest hit by inventory adjustments earlier this year —including radio and television manufacturers and furniture makers—were reported showing "better than usual increases" in employment totals. The magazine noted that recent employment increases in these industries marked the first such boost since the fourth quarter of last year.

To the 'Showers'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—James Argenbright learned the hard way that an umpire's word literally is law. Argenbright got into a heated dispute with Umpire Bob Everett while watching a local baseball game Friday. At the height of the argument the umpire pulled out a police badge and arrested the startled spectator for disorderly conduct.

WEYMOUTH, England (UP)—Doctors lost their cricket match against the local clergy Sunday because their star batsman was called away to a confinement.

Vacationers at Lake Irked by Police Edict

HAWLEY, Pa. (UP) —Vacationers at this resort community on the north end of Lake Wallenpaupak are wondering today if it is a resort community.

A vacationing lady recently was spotted shopping in shorts, on the brief side. A complaint was filed with Police Chief George Krause who discussed the matter with town officials.

Shortly thereafter two signs were posted reminding casually dressed vacationers that a local ordinance prohibits anyone over 12 years from appearing in Hawley "clad in bathing suits, tights, midriffs, halters or men without shirts."

Although the visiting ladies wonder what a midriff is, they are wearing more suitable clothing when they shop.

'On the House'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Lots of money moved over the counters of two taverns here Saturday but it was strictly "no sale." Federal revenue agents scooped the money from the tills to meet tax liens.

Train Is Loser

TOULOUSE, France (UP)— An iron horse met its match near here and had to be rescued by some shaggy dogs. An enraged bull challenged the Foix-Toulouse passenger train Saturday night charging and running the engine repeatedly. The passengers and crew did not dare step outside to drive the animal off but several dogs appeared and finally chased the bull.

Police to Act As Pallbearers For Mystery Lad

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Homicide Squad detectives this week will act as pallbearers at the funeral of a six-year-old boy they have been unable to identify since his brutally beaten body was found in a field here six months ago.

City police are determined that the tot will not be given burial in Potters Field. They have been quietly chipping in to provide the youngster with a casket, flowers and a funeral service. Capt. David H. Roberts of the homicide squad is making the arrangements.

The youngster was found Feb. 26 in a cardboard box in the Fox Chase section of the city.

All efforts to identify the boy have failed. Hundreds of police made house to house canvasses, queried hundreds of persons, summoned scores more to view the victim and sent thousands of circulars bearing his picture throughout the nation.

The child is believed to be about six years old with medium brown hair and blue eyes.

The decimal money system was adopted by Congress on July 6, 1785.

Don't Take Jobless Pay While Vacationing, Labor Department Says

WASHINGTON (P)—Labor Department officials advised today against trying to draw unemployment compensation while taking a vacation with pay.

They said such a trick is possible only under unusual circumstances, even in New York State where thousands of workers are reported to be trying to put it across.

In all states, including New York, they said a worker on a paid vacation in the usual sense is employed and therefore ineligible for jobless pay.

Under the federal-state unemployment insurance program, states have the right to determine whether a worker is employed or not.

The New York situation results from a ruling by the state unemployment insurance appeals board. It held that under some employer-union wage contracts, vacation pay is a "bonus" for past work.

Under this ruling a plant shutdown for a vacation or any other reason makes the workers unemployed and eligible for unemployment insurance.

Department officials said the New York ruling applies only where employer - union contracts specify vacation pay is due employes regardless of whether or when there is an actual vacation.

Most employer-union contracts provide that employes get vacations with pay based on their experience. All states, including New York, hold that under these contracts a worker is employed while on a paid vacation and therefore ineligible for unemployment insurance.

So far as they know, these officials said, the New York ruling is unique.

However in some states vacation pay is considered a bonus when employes are laid off in advance of the vacation period. This is true in New Jersey, Texas, Michigan, Illinois, Connecticut and Oklahoma. But in Wisconsin, laid-off workers are ineligible for unemployment pay for the period they receive vacation pay.

Department officials said the New York ruling is based on a 1955 New York state appeals court decision holding vacation pay a bonus for past work when it does not depend on the employe actually taking a vacation. The court put such pay in the category of a Christmas bonus.

In the case before the appeals board last January, department officials said the wage contract stated that all employes after June 1 of each year would receive vacation pay allowances regardless of whether or when they took a vacation.

Shortly after June 1 the employer shut dhown his plant to take inventory. Since the vacation pay allowance would have gone to the employes whether or not the plant shut down, they were held unemployed for lack of work.

Volunteer TV Aides To All Legislators

(William Ewald is on vacation. Today's writers are Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding, Mutual Radio's "Bob and Ray".)

By BOB ELLIOTT and RAY GOULDING

NEW YORK (UP) — Now is the time for all good broadcasters to come to the aid of our congressman.

After all, why should the President be the only government man with a TV advisor? So, we've decided to be volunteer broadcast aides to all our legislators.

First of all, ladies and gentlemen of Capitol Hill, let us check into the dos and don'ts of radio.

Now in radio, you should seem most provocative before the microphone, but actually never say anything. We've written a paper on the subject titled "How to Provoke Mootness" and sub-titled "10 Best Ways to Embarrass Khrushchev." It's well worth reading this summer while vacationing from the hill.

Think Hard

If you're questioned on a show think hard before you answer. Then give the standard answer like "I've not had a chance to check with committee counsel," or "I'm sorry, I cannot answer that one; it's being discussed in executive session."

Always sound tired. It's great in getting over the impression you're overworked.

Talk naturally, like you do back home. Drop that accent you may have picked up at one of Mrs. Cafritz's parties. Refrain from cocktail receipes. And don't wise crack! That's for after the show. Unless, of course, you're known as a handy banterer back home.

And one last point. Don't sound irritated. Some listener might mistake you for the mid-program commercial about stomach ache causatives.

Now to television. There's more to TV than make-up and blue shirts. Use make-up sparingly. After all, you're not a professional—at least not yet (we hope). A good make-up job hides those worry and age wrinkles and, after all, they're the best assets of a good congressman.

Be relaxed! Wear clothes that look like they've been slept in. All this adds to the hard work and tired-of-it-all illusion. Don't close your eyes, even though the bright lights may bother you. That makes you look sleepy—and gives that carousing appearance.

And don't wear dark glasses. They're for McClellan and Kefauver committee witnesses.

On TV, it's a little tougher to dally a rough question. But it can be done. If you wear glasses, polish them thoughtfully. If you're a doodler, bear down more heavily on the pencil. If you're sitting — then stand and use the deep thought, non - ponderous walk. But move slowly so cameras and lights can follow you. Then readily figure a way out of this provocative mess.

Another thing, always have papers in front of you—so that you alone can see them. They're great for impressionable purposes.

Well, that's all for today. And if you think your congressman may have missed this, please clip it from this newspaper and send it to him.

Harry Belafonte Can't Get TV, Movie Sponsors

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Harry Belafonte's record, nightclub and stage success has made him one of the nation's most popular entertainers, but, he said today, he can't get a TV sponsor and the movies are afraid of him.

Belafonte's current concert here at the outdoor Greek Theater is a record-breaker — the entire three-week run nearly sold out before he even opened. He easily could make a rich living on records or clubs alone.

But the singer's desire to star in four one-hour TV shows this season is stymied "because there's no sponsor." Although movie studios are scrambling for his services he has difficulty finding scripts that satisfy his "artistic integrity."

"I've found censorship and I've found fear the predominant factor both in television and motion pictures whenever it comes to subject matter involving Negroes," said Belafonte.

Belafonte talked broodingly about his beliefs and problems. At the same time he signed autographs for a mob of tourists who surrounded him in the Brown Derby restaurant.

Your Health—

Multiple Sclerosis Hits Many Between 20-40

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

We usually think of the two decades between the ages of 20 and 40 as about the healthiest time of life. Yet this is precisely the age group most menaced by the ravages of multiple sclerosis.

Rarely does it affect children below the age of 10 and adults beyond the age of 50.

For some mysterious reason, multiple sclerosis occurs six times as often in cold climates as it does in warm areas.

Simply explained, it is disintegration and subsequent scarring of areas of fatty, whitish tissue called myelin, which sheathe the nerves of the brain and spinal cord, and disintegration and scarring of the axis cylinders carrying the nerve fibers.

These patches of scar tissue, along with the destruction of the nerve fibers, apparently block various nerve impulses from reaching the muscles which serve to activate the various parts of the body. In short, paralysis is the result.

Quite frankly, we admit that of the thousands of treatments that have been tried, not one has as yet proved to be really effective. Still it is possible to "manage" the symptoms of the disorder to some extent and in some cases to retard relapses.

In about half of the cases, the course of the disease is interrupted by remission, sudden disappearance of the symptoms, or at least less severe symptoms. These remissions may last for weeks, months, even years.

We are pretty sure that both mental and physical strain can cause recurrence of symptoms.

Since it is so difficult to diagnose multiple sclerosis during the early stages, I think all of you should know the symptoms.

These include a sudden blurring of vision, double vision or a tingling of the arm or leg. Rhythmic jerking of the eyeballs, tremor occurring with purposeful effort, slurring and staccato speech might also be present.
